

CFPR Lunchtime Seminar Series 2018

Development of China's Social Governance: From Structure Change to System Construction

Throughout the four decades of reform and opening, China has been experiencing substantial changes in social governance. The old model of "state-working unit-individual" is under significant transformation. How to develop a new system of social governance to re-organize the social lives of Chinese, which had been rapidly diversified, is becoming an urgent issue for China. This lecture aims to introduce how a new scheme of social governance is taking form in China, as well as the macro-designs of the new system of social governance.

Professor LI Youmei got the PhD degree of sociology from Paris Institute of Political Studies (Science Po). She is now the President of the Chinese Sociological Association, First Vice President of Shanghai Academy in the Chinese Academy of Social Science (CASS), Professor in Shanghai University, and Editor-in-Chief of Chinese Journal of Sociology (CJS)

Chaired by: Dr Feng Qiushi

Member, Centre for Family and Population Research (CFPR) Steering Committee,
Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology, NUS

Date: 20 April 2018, Friday | Time: 12.00nn - 1.30pm

All are Welcome! Refreshments will be served. Registration is required.

Register at <https://tinyurl.com/yd27d7sy> by 19 April 2018