CENTRE FOR FAMILY & POPULATION RESEARCH

About Us

The Centre for Family and Population Research (CFPR), established in 2014, is an interdisciplinary research centre in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, NUS. It is dedicated to the scientific advancement of research and training in the study of trends, determinants, and consequences of family and population changes around the world, particularly in Singapore and Asia.

Research Themes

- Ageing and Health
- Children and Youth, Human Development
- Fertility and Marriage, Gender Relations and Family Policies
- Migration, Human Capital and Labour Market
- Population and Household Dynamics
- Social Stratification and Inequality
- Research Methods

Our Vision & Mission

To provide leadership for family and population research

Promote leading-edge, empirically-based and policy-relevant research

Foster collaboration among academics and policy makers

Provide training in social science research methods

Our Programmes

→ Training Programme

Our training courses are conducted as 1- to 2-day workshops that cover a wide range of topics from basic to intermediate to advanced skills in quantitative and qualitative analyses. Most of the courses involve statistical software such as SPSS, STATA and R.

Our teaching team is made up of award-winning NUS instructors, with decades of experience teaching social science research methods.

→ Internships

CFPR provides summer internships for local and international students to gain practical work experience in research and administrative support to the Centre. Interns will engage in research undertaken by the Centre and work under the direct supervision of the Centre's faculty and staff members.
