

Workshop on Japanese Language and Interaction

National University of Singapore
Department of Japanese Studies

6 – 7 September 2013
AS4 03-28, JS Meeting Room

Friday, September 6, 2013
10:00-10:10	Opening Remarks by Emi Morita
Session I: Language Socialization in Japanese
10:10-10:50	Michie Kawashima , Relating with the unseen as a family member
10:50-11:30	Matt Burdelski (Osaka University), Socializing children to hear others' words and see their bodily behavior as social action
11:30-12:10	Tomoko Endo (JSPS/Kyoto University) , Learning to do for others: The use of the -te ageru benefactive in Japanese child-caregiver interaction
12:10-14:00	Lunch Break
Session II: Children's interactional competence
14:00-14:40	Emi Morita (National University of Singapore), Objectifying their own action: Establishing turn-taking features in the "play" of caregiver-child interaction
14:40-15:20	Akira Takada (Kyoto University) , Types of request-accept adjacency pairs in Japanese caregiver-child interactions
15:20-15:50	Break
15:50-16:30	Tomoyo Takagi (University of Tsukuba), Fork WA fork?: Children's requests for activity-relevant items
16:30-17:00	General Discussion

* Anyone interested in Japanese language, interactional linguistics, language socialization, developmental pragmatics, and conversation analysis are welcome. All talks presented on Day 1 are in English.

Saturday, September 7, 2013
10:00-12:00	Data Session* lead by Shimako Iwasaki
12:00-14:00	Lunch Break
14:00-16:00	CCI Publication meeting

* All discussion for this data session, like the data itself, will be done in Japanese. Anyone who understands Japanese and wants to participate in this collaborative learning opportunity is welcome.