A Public Lecture by Associate Professor Timothy Sim, Department of Applied Social Sciences, PolyU, Hong Kong 'Listen to what they say: Service Evaluation and Model Development'

5 Jan 2018, Friday
4.00pm to 5.30pm

Lecture Theatre 12
Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, NUS
10 Kent Ridge Crescent, (S) 119260

LECTURE SYNOPSIS

This talk highlights the lessons learned from systematic service evaluation and practice model development based on two case studies. One is a multiple group family therapy model for drug abuse in one of the leading social service providers in Hong Kong. The other is a leading multi-model pathological videogames service for adolescents in Singapore. One key lesson learned: Listen to your clients

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR TIMOTHY SIM, PHD

Department of Applied Social Sciences, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University

Timothy worked as a social worker in a Singapore NGO serving the poor and needy for a decade. Since entering academia at the turn of the millennium, he has kept an active practice and developed his research through close collaboration with service users, practitioners and policy makers in the field of family, addictions and disaster management. He staunchly believes, evidenced by his extensive body of publications in both English and Chinese, grand challenges can be tackled through multi-disciplinary and cross-sector collaborations founded on the experience of the community.
